

RFID and Caring for the Elderly

In the situation of Kathy Pascal and her elderly mother, Yes Kathy should follow the advice of the administrator to place an RFID tag under here mother's skin. Her mother loses more and more of her mental capacity so when there is a RFID in her, it is easy to monitor where her mother is and putting RFID in her skin helps to double check medical records each time she received medical therapy.

It is ok for Kathy to go after with the administrator's advice to ensure the security of her mother. Better if she let her mother have RFID in her skin and can freely wander in their house and backyard than not having the RFID but letting her mother just stay inside the house for her safety.
